CIRCUIT COURT.

Grand Jury Discharged and Court Proceedings Closed For This Term.

Circuit court labors were completed last week except the motion of the lawyers for the defense in the Rush murder case, in which they sought first to have the indictment quashed, which Judge Snodgrass denied. The attorneys for the defense, Judge E. G. Tollett and C. E. Keyes, then attempted to have the case removed to another county on the grounds that the defendant could not get a fair trial in this county on account of prejudice. Judge Snodgrass declined to grant the change until both sides of the controversy should be heard. The defense offered some affidavits and the prosecution had many witnesses summoned from over the county.

The examination of the witnesses was completed late yesterday evening and Judge Snodgrass declined to grant the change of venue asked by the defense as the evidence did not tend to show that Rush could not receive a fair trial in this county.

Following are the criminal cases that were disposed of and which closed that branch of the court work for this term:

Homer Godsey, carrying a pistol; fined $50 and costs.

CIVIL CASES.

Huddy Eastley, vs. Tennessee Central railroad. Damage suit; compromised by paying plaintiff $225.

Crossville vs. Leo Dayton. This is a tipping case appealed from the city court. The action of the recorder was sustained and the fine of $25 fixed by Recorder Rector remained.

Jack Davenport had a similar case, which was appealed from the city court. Davenport had been fined $50 by the recorder, but Judge Snodgrass reduced the fine one-half and sustained the case.

Tennessee Central vs. Ayer-Lord Tie Company. The railroad claimed damages amounting to $176 on account of cars running away at Obey City while being loaded with ties. The railroad was awarded judgement in the sum of $146; case appealed.

James Smith vs. Monroe Hyde; judgement for $17 on store account.

L. E. Chester vs. O. T. Headley; judgement for $109.87.

W. C. Officer vs. J. W. Carmack; judgement for plaintiff for $245.

Mary J. Hamby vs. M. S. Wryick; land ordered sold.

J. W. Wyatt vs. James Smith (not Trustee James Smith) suit brought to force payment of note. Compromised on payment of half of note and each pay half of costs.

J. S. Watson brought suit against Dan Elmore for about $100 that he claimed Elmore was due him for crates removed from a 100-acre tract owned by Watson. The evidence showed that Dan Elmore did not buy the timber in person and did not get the ties but that he had paid Watson for more ties than he got. The case was dismissed as to Dan Elmore and Watson taxed with the costs. Watson brought the suit under the pauper oath. The editor of the Chronicle is not versed in the law, but it seems strange that a person could bring suit under the pauper oath when he was the owner of 100 acres of land. Watson also owns a house and a few acres of land in Crossville.

White Davis appealed a case of public drunkenness from the city court; the case was compromised.

E. N. Dickerson vs. R. A. Renfro; land ordered sold.

Cumberland Tie Company vs. B. C. Dunlap; land ordered sold.

Talmadge Watson was arrested and fined in the city court for disorderly conduct and took an appeal to the circuit court. The case was compromised by Watson paying $2.50 and all costs.

T. J. Nichols vs. Artie Nichols; divorce granted.

Georgia Green vs. Caleb Green; divorce granted.

A. J. Davis had a cow killed by the Tennessee Central railroad and recovered $45 for same.

W. E. Reed had a mule hurt by a T. C. train and he recovered $20 by compromise with the railroad company.

Farmers' Co-Operative Supply Company vs. J. B. Burkheart; land ordered sold.

E. S. Jones vs. Frank Perkins; land ordered sold.

$100 Reward, $100
